

Jessica,

I'm watching a movie with my husband right now so I will have to be brief. No, I have never heard a single audible word from God and have said that often. But I have at times been so heavily impressed by Him on my heart that I had a very strong sense of what He was intending to get across to me. In sharing it, I used regular language - words - as people often do, to express those strong impressions that came with the pressing of the Holy Spirit.

Bless you as you continue to seek Christ Jesus. He will be the greatest thrill of your life.

Beth
